

Future Faculty Photo competition – “Academic Oopsies: Embracing the unexpected”

We are excited to announce the "Academic Oopsies: Embracing the unexpected" Photo Competition! This year, our photo competition aims to celebrate the human side of academic research by capturing the unexpected moments, mishaps, and untold experiences that often occur in the pursuit of knowledge. Whether it's a lab experiment gone wrong, a coding error that led to an unexpected outcome, or a comical mishap during fieldwork, we want to see it all! This competition is an opportunity to showcase the behind the scenes of academia and foster a sense of fellowship among our research community. The competition is open to all employees at the Medical Faculty (including PhD students and postdocs on stipend) except for the Future Faculty steering committee.

Submission Guidelines:

Submit up to 3 photos (JPEG, min 300dpi) of your favorite oops moments related to academic research. Include a brief description explaining the context of the mishap captured in the photo.

Deadline for submissions: ~~January 12th, 2024~~ New deadline: January 21st, 2024

Prizes:

Future faculty members will be asked to vote on their favorite photos and the participants submitting the top 3 photos will receive exciting prizes. The 10 photos with the highest score will be displayed at Medicon Village, BMC and CRC.

How to Submit:
